Outline Of This Presentation

- 1 Motivations
- 2 Themes
- 3 Analysing Market Tops
- 4 Themes Summary
- 5 Charts
- 6 Top Chart Award

Monitoring Leaders Is Important

- Equities have rallied significantly from the March 2009 lows. It is now time to reassess which markets, sectors, or stocks that did well.
- Leaders often lead both ways - up and down. Monitoring their performances is therefore important.
- Leaders also help us to understand where the current imbalances are being accumulated. Bubbly sectors usually reflect the current market optimism - or overconfidence!
- As often said, “the bigger the boom, the bigger the bust”. Market leaders can provide a once-in-a-lifetime short opportunity!

Let's look at past market leaders...

Past Leaders:

- 1970s Commodities (from agriculture to gold); Commodity stocks; Defence; Property.
- 1980s Japan (Property and stocks); Taiwan; Korea; Thailand; US stocks (until 1987); US property (from 1986).
- 1990s South East Asia (HK, Sin, Mal, Thai, Kor, Indo); Russia. Followed by Technology (T-M-T); large-cap; Jap Bonds.
- 2000s Property; Financial stocks (from subprime mortgage brokers to home improvement firms to financial brokers); B-R-I-C; Miners; Oil (from crude oil to oil service sectors); Gulf countries; Commodities; Shipping.

Which Areas Attracted Global Capital After The Lehman Crisis?

Themes since early 2009

- 1 Auto - esp. emerging markets
- 2 Gold miners
- 3 Infrastructure, Engineering and Industrial - esp. UK
- 4 Emerging pharmaceuticals and developed regions health care
- 5 Emerging Conglomerates, Construction and Retail
- 6 Technology
- 7 Consumer goods (staples and discretionary)
- 8 Selected emerging markets banks

1. Distinct Rotation From Previous Market Leaders

- 1 Developed financials - such as commercial banks, merchant banks, insurance and property - remain way below the previous cycle highs.
- 2 Emerging financials, however, have recovered faster. For example, banks in India, Indonesia and Turkey have rallied near the pre-crisis highs.
- 3 Europe and Japan show poor action. Few advanced to all-time highs.
- 4 Some US sectors showed good strength, in terms of price and relative charts, eg, technology.
- 5 Several UK sectors did well, eg, industrial.

2. Emerging Consumers A Big Theme

A tsunami of money is flowing into sectors exposed to the rising middle class in emerging markets. Sectors that particularly benefitted included:

- 1 Auto
- 2 Household goods
- 3 Health care

3. The 'Barbaric Relic' - Gold - Rises To Record Highs

- Worries about sovereign debts have led to record buying of gold - and gold miners. This is a continuation of the "commodity super-cycle". A bubble in gold miners? May be.
- What about silver? Good potential.

In A Word: Dangerous

It is a well-known fact that:

"Periods that start with above-average P/Es produce below-average returns, and periods that start with below-average P/E produce above-average returns."^a

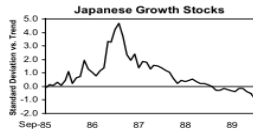

Returns available after prices rose 5x or 10x from the lows are probably slimmer. Moreover, GMO shows that after a big, two-standard deviation rise in price, the rally always ends in tears.

^aEasterling Ed, Unexpected Returns, p.38

A Study Of Past "Bubbly" Sectors Show That...

Big Busts Followed Big Gains!

Every Sector Bubble Has Also Retreated 100% – or More

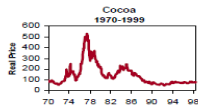

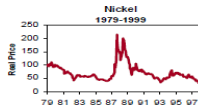

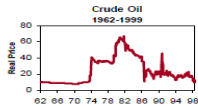

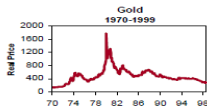

GMO
GOLD MINE

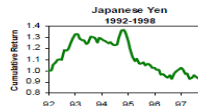

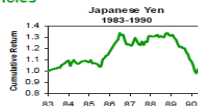

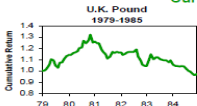

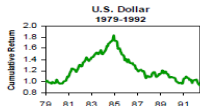

And This Occurred In All Sectors

Every Extraordinary Capital Market Gain Has Retreated 100% – or More

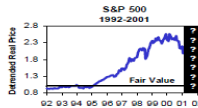

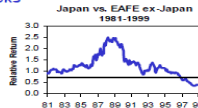

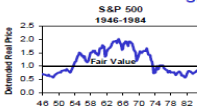

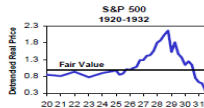

Commodities

Currencies

Stocks

GMO

Note: For S&P charts, trend is 2% real price appreciation per year. Data through March 2001.

All in all, history warns us against buying leaders that have already produced big gains.

How Do Stocks Top Out?

1. Acceleration

- Easiest to identify. Like spotting a Mount Everest on a plain.
- Characteristics: Consistent, rapid gains, and far above prior peaks.

▶ Example 1

▶ Example 2

2. Potential failed breaks

- Rallies to previous peaks, but fails to hold the breakout.

▶ Example 1

▶ Example 2

3. Choppy action

- Sideways trading for months or years before breaking down.
- Hardest to trade.

▶ Example 1

▶ Example 2

Often, stocks can develop all three characteristics before topping out, eg, Copper from 2003 to 2008.

Monitor These Indicators Closely:

- 1 200-day Moving Average (and major round numbers) ▶ Example
- 2 Relative strength against market and peers ▶ Example
- 3 Weekly engulfing candles ▶ Example

When charts develop all these patterns, it pays to get out - immediately!

Markets considered (Followed By Country Code)

- Developed: US (Composite 1500, US), UK (FTSE350, LN), Europe (Stoxx, GER/FIN/BEL), Japan (N225, JP), Canada (TSX, CAN), Australia (ASX200, AUS), Korea (KOSPI, KS), Singapore (STI, SIN), HK (HSI, HK).
- Developing: China (180 and H, CHI), India (Nifty, IN), Brazil (Bovespa, BRA), Thailand (SET, TB), Malaysia (KLCI, MK), Philippines (SE45, PL), Indonesia (LQ45, IJ), Middle-East and Turkey (TURK), Chile.

Technical Filters

- 1 Above prior cycle peaks
- 2 Outperformed peers
- 3 52-week price and market relative highs

Statistics

- 1 Percentage from Oct'08-Mar'09 low to post-crisis peak
- 2 Percentage from previous peak to current peak

9. Emerging Banks	10	264	28	14.22	2.36	▶ Click To Table

Explanations: Column 2 is the number of stocks in a theme; Column 3 is the distance from Oct'08-Mar'09 lows to the post-Mar'09 peak in percentage terms, averaged; Column 4 is the distance from the previous cyclical peak to the post-Mar'09 peak in percentage terms, averaged; Column 5 and 6 are the average P-E ratios and Dividend yield respectively.

▶ Back To Outline

Notable Facts

- 1 Gold miners rallied the most from the previous cyclical peaks. But they have the lowest yield and third highest P-E, indicating that the advance could be due to the rising gold price.
- 2 Technology stocks share the low dividend and high P-E characteristics.
- 3 On the other hand, the Infrastructure, Engineering and Industrial theme still produces a reasonable yield of 2.84%.
- 4 Energy and Agriculture has highest P-E ratio while Emerging Banks has lowest P-E ratio.

Let us now look at individual stocks...
